HISTORY

Inaugurated in 1880 by Dom Pedro II and idealized by the landscaper designer Auguste François Marie Glaziou, the Campo de Santana Park is a distinct space among others in the city, incorporating both the romantic elements common to english landscape gardens, and principles from the french gardening and landscaping school of Alphand. Such combination worked, intertwining winding lanes along with lakes, grass expanses, exotic species from the local fauna and a majestic afforestation. On top of that, the Campo de Santana Park is registered as a site of both historic and cultural importance to the country by the State Institute of Cultural Heritage (INEPAC) since 1968 and by the National Historic and Artistic Heritage Institute (IPHAN) since 2015, occupying an total area of 155,20m².
